(By R. V. Sawhill.)

Mansfield, Aug. 29.—The Tigers removed all possibility of Newark forcing them into fifth place in the league standing by taking the first game of the two game series from them, by a score of 2 to 1. It was a well contested game, both teams playing good ball in the field. Mansfield was only able to shove a man across the plate in one inning, the same condition in which Newark found themselves. The game was marked by the brilliant pitching of Phelan and Kaler, the fielding of Davy and the catching of Harmon.

The game only served to bear out the condition of affairs that has prevailed all season. When the Tigers play the Molders on their own home lot, it is almost impossible for them to put one over, and a similar state of affairs prevails when Newark plays Mansfield on their home grounds.

It was the first game this season that Phelan was able to win on the local grounds, while it was also the second time this season that he has walked off the field after pitching a winning game. He has pitched winning ball on several more occasions, but yesterday there was happily a combination between the two. He pitched strong ball all the way through. There was no trace of his customary fault, of wildness, he only losing one pass, and it failed to result in a run. Time after time, he would have three balls and no strikes on the batter, but invariably he would rally and either force them to ground out or get the necessary three strikes over the plate. He kept the ball well scattered, three of the six batters coming in the fourth when Newark scored its only run. The Molders very rarely got on bases and when they did Whitey failed to go up in the air. He had the game well in hand all the way through. It looks very much as if Phelan had acquired the necessary confidence in his ability and he should prove to be a winner from now on. He has won two games in succession, both of them from Newark.

Big Frank Moore, who hopes to be wearing a Columbus uniform this time next season, started the game but was benched by Umpire Hardesty in the second inning. Two runs had scored off of him before he was put out of the game.

He got away fairly well in the first inning, two singles coming after two were out, getting him into a hole, but Kaler, the next man up, flied out to Abbott. It appeared at first as if the hit would go safe. Moore, however, got in trouble in the second. He helped the locals to a run by making a balk. It was the first one seen in Mansfield this season. He kicked a little too strenuously, when Umpire Hardesty allowed the run to count, although it was palpably a balk. He was ordered out of the game and Kaler was sent in to finish the game.

If he had been sent in at the start of the game instead of going in after the game had been lost there might possibly have been a different story. He pitched good ball, but even at that the work of Phelan was a little classier. He blanked the Tigers for six innings, none of the locals getting as far as third while he was working. He was in trouble at different times, but always got away with it. It was a fortunate thing that he has been safely disposed of for this series as he might have caused us some trouble if he had been sent in tomorrow.

Flood was passed to start the second and went to third on Davy's single. Davy's hit went safe between Grgil and Pinkney. Grgil having run in for a sacrifice. Davy then proceeded to steal second. Harmon knocked one to McClintock, and was retired at first. Flood, however, scoring with the first run of the game. Davy went to third on the play. It was then that Moore contributed a balk and Davy walked home. Phelan, next beat out a grounder to Pinkney, but Kaler got the next two safely.

Flood was passed to start the fourth inning, and reached second with one out, but could not get any farther. Biery doubled in the fifth but was caught at third. When he tried to reach that station on a short passed ball. Flood reached second in the sixth while Phelan singled in the seventh, but neither time did any scoring follow. Channell also got as far as second in the eighth, but Kaler was unequal to the occasion.

Newark went out in order in the first two innings. Whitey singled in the second, but was caught trying to steal. In the third the visitors looked dangerous. With one out Williams scored a life when Davy threw high to first after making a good stop of his grounder. Kaler, next up, hit the ball without knowing anything about it, and was an easy out at first, Williams going to second. Kaler was trying to get away from the ball. A wild pitch put the catcher on third, but Pinkney fouled out to Harmon. In the fourth McClintock singled and went to second on an infield out. Grgil singled, scoring Mac, but the first baseman was caught trying to steal second. A double by Williams and a pass to Kaler after two were out, in the fifth, looked bad, but Pinkney was again easy. Smith worked his way around to third in the seventh but Williams proved unequal to the occasion. They went out in order in the last two innings. The score:

DROPS TWO MORE.

Lancaster, Aug. 29.—The Links repeated their performance of Thursday and took both games of a double header from the Shoemakers. Red White pitched both of the games and twirled in great style. MORTON CALLED TO NEW CASTLE.

New Castle, Pa., Aug. 29.—Baseball affairs here reached a climax yesterday, when Presi-dent Morton was summoned to aid in settling the trouble. The players have not been paid this month, but Morton guaranteed they would get their cash Sat-urday night.

Several men are willing to pay all debts if they can secure the franchise. Unfortunately, President A. C. Hyde is now in Canada, but will be home soon.

Bennie Jewell, of the Mansfield club, has again been released and fined $100 for failure to take care of himself since his last injury. He has gone to his home in Grand Rapids.

Poor old Portsmouth! Four straight to Lancaster, when by jumping into the leaders they could do so much good just now. Dootin and his bunch are hopelessly doomed for the cellar, but the rest of the race is rather uncertain.

"Bill" Dithridge, who played with Marion the greater part of last season has signed to finish the season with Portsmouth.

Bill Coughlin, captain and third baseman of the Detroit Tigers, has been benched for Clayton Perry, star third baseman of the Southern league. Perry was recently pur-chased from Montgomery.

The Danville Blues, who have played good independent ball this season want a game with the Newark Mold-ers, according to a dispatch in a Mt. Vernon paper.

Umpire Hardesty is having trouble with his hand. Some time ago he severed the tendon in the index finger of one of his hands while using a hatchet in carpentering.

Umpire Hart's trouble is with his head. No mention, however has been made of the severing of a tendon; neither has he ever been known to use a hatchet, or to have ever done any carpentering.

GERMAN BOAT

INTERRUPTS MANEUVERS ON BRITISH TORPEDO BOAT SQUADRON.

Commander Suspected of Spying on Movements, But Says His Boat
Was Disabled.

London, Aug. 29.—British naval officers in charge of the torpedo boat
maneuvers in the Tyne were thrown into a rage today by the appearance
in the midst of the maneuvers of the German torpedo boat "D 5." Suspecting the German boat of being a spy,
it was stopped and boarded by British officers, who demanded an explanation from the commander. He explained that the "D 5" suddenly became disabled and he had to put into Tyne for repairs. He disclaimed any intention of spying and for proof showed the boat's disability. The maneuvers were suspended. The affair caused bitter feeling and it is probable that England will ask for an official statement from Germany.

FAST GAME PROMISED

The game tomorrow afternoon at Wehrle park between the Times Recorder baseball team of Zanesville,
and the Hermanns, the champions of the City league, will be called at 3 o'clock, and will undoubtedly be the best amateur game of the season.
Both teams are last and the game put up by the Hermanns all season have been high class. A good crowd should be present to see the contest.

ELK ON TRAMP ACROSS COUNTRY

For His Health and On a Wager —
He Passes Through Newark on His Way.

Chris Denenbaum, an Elk, from the Newark, N. J. lodge, is expected to arrive this afternoon or tonight from Zanesville, a foot. The man is walking from New Jersey to San Francisco for his health and on a wager.
From Frisco he expects to sail for Manila.

Denenbaum is another of those pedestrians who have sprung up in the past year since the feat of Walker Weston. However, he has two good motives for his long trip—his health,
and the winning of a $1,000 wager
between himself and one of his friends that he can make the entire trip in good shape and earn his living
en route.

The pedestrian, who carries credentials from the mayor of Newark, N. J.
and the order of Elks, left Newark
June 24, and has been making 10 miles daily on the average. His record is 60 miles in one day of 18 hours. He has no specified time in which to complete the journey and is taking it as easy stages.

Denenbaum is visiting every Elk lodge en route. He goes from here to Columbus and St. Louis, where he will detour south, in order to escape
the winter weather, expecting to arrive at Los Angeles in time to attend
the national Elk convention, July 12.
The journey is over 3,000 miles and he has already accomplished 800 of them. He sells postal cards and souvenir buttons en route to pay his expenses. Denenbaum is a hale appearing man of about 40 or 45, and says he is enjoying the trip, although his feet gave him trouble the first two or three weeks.

WOOSTER UNIVERSITY

The Wooster University football team is an uncertain quantity. The great reverses experienced by the teams of this institution in the last two years have a bad effect on the student body, but with Tom Longman
inspiring some of the famous "Hurry-Up" Yost brand of steam into the players, as well as supporters, Woos-

petitor for the championship trophy.

May Not Have Sunday Ball—Girls
Form a Ball Team—Jewell
Jumps Again.

It was just naturally hard luck that Moore wasn't in form, for the hits
they got off him lost the game. Well
there is a double header today, and Maybe we can win them both. But Mansfield is always lucky on their home grounds and it will be a pretty fight for honors.

Sunday baseball in Detroit is under the ban, and a halt will be made by the ball club to allow the game to be played on the seventh day. The case will be carried to the Supreme court.

MESSAGE

Over the Phone to Eddy's Father Said
the Young Man is in a Chicago Hospital.

Wooster, O., Aug. 29.—Although every Milwaukee clew which has led to the discovery of Ralph Eddy, the missing fiancé of Miss Lucy Warren, has been exhausted, the search for the missing man has not been stopped.
Miss Warren is urging that the search
be kept up.

Two new clues, one based on a mysterious telephone message and the other on an unidentified body of a young, well-dressed man found in a box car at Wankegan, Ill., were taken up yesterday. Captain R. E. Eddy, the young man's father, was called to the telephone last night, and a man's voice over the phone told him that Ralph was in a Chicago hospital.
When Eddy asked for the man's name
the receiver was hung up.

BIGAMIST

Left Prison and Much Married Father
to See Bigamist Brother in Illinois.

Champaign, O., Aug. 29.—Ben A.
Holden, bigamist, leaving his father
behind him to complete his sentence
of six years, also for bigamy, was discharged from the Ohio penitentiary
yesterday.

He is going to Illinois to see his brother, who is serving a term in the state reformatory for bigamy.

Holden was paroled five months ago, but was forced to complete his sentence because he could not raise the necessary $25 to deposit as an evidence of good faith. His young wife, sister of one of the wives of his brother in the Illinois, flatly refused to help him.

COUPLE ELOPED TO COSHOCTON BACK AGAIN

A marriage license was issued in the Probate court yesterday for the marriage of Michael Spring, a glass
blower of this city, and Miss Laura Stump also of this city. A spectator from Coshocton states that the young couple visited the court house there
and tried to get a license, but were refused by the Probate judge. Coshocton just now is infected by the elopement germ and there have been three elopements from that city within the past week. Another couple gave their address as Coshocton, but were unknown there. Coshocton ministers are thinking of getting out an injunction stopping these wholesale elopements, as it is cutting into their income.

A return was made in the probate court Saturday stating that Mr. Spring and Miss Stump were married by Judge Legi Staats of Tuscarawas
township, Coshocton county.

The probate court officials state that the "Squire had no jurisdiction in the matter" and went beyond his authority in performing the ceremony.

Horse Run Away. The trace of the harness coming unfastened, caused the horse hitched to Long's delivery wagon to run away on West Main street this afternoon and before it could be stopped it ran into a heavy farm wagon at the City Drug Store. Russell Long, who was driving, was thrown out, but not injured, while the left hind leg of the horse was terribly cut.

GARTER

Of Fair Lady Gave Way and Roll of Greenbacks Escaped—Says She Lost $180.

New York, Aug. 29.—Miss Caroline Burke of New York, a guest at Ashbury Park, has brought suit against M. Francis Cavallon, also of New York, and a guest at the hotel.

Miss Burke recently lost $180, she says, The breaking of a garter was the cause of the loss. She advertised the loss and the next day $82 was returned to her by a messenger boy. It had been found at the hotel by Mr. Cavallon, who insisted that the roll contained only the amount returned to the owner.

Miss Burke then brought suit against Cavallon for the balance. The latter said he did not return the money promptly because the amount found did not tally with that mentioned in the advertisement, and he feared he would be suspected of having held out the difference. After consulting his lawyer he returned the $82 to Miss Burke.

Robert Toms, Eastern Representative.

Two Republican state officers have become big bankers on deposits of money from the state treasury, and to prolong their soft snap they nominated their deputies at the Republican state convention to succeed them in the offices. Decent Republican papers of the state have severely denounced this flagrant boss rule corruption.

TAFT "IN BAD" AGAIN.

Supporters of Mr. Bryan have reason to rejoice over the position Mr. Taft has taken against guaranty of bank deposits. He says: "It puts a premium on reckless banking and is an inducement to reckless banking." If Mr. Bryan were to cast such a slur on bankers he would be denounced as an incendiary and a slanderer.

Mr. Taft takes the same position taken by former Governor Herrick in his reply to Mr. Bryan's address to the Ohio legislature last February on guaranteed banks, when Mr. Herrick used almost the same language. Mr. Taft's position will be well understood in Newark and Gailon and Newark and Oberlin and Cleveland and Wooster and wherever people have suffered from bank failures. Guaranteed deposits would protect bank directors and stockholders as well as depositors. It would help them "weather the storm" when a cashier or teller goes wrong, by preventing runs and possible bankruptcy.

After Mr. Bryan's Des Moines speech on tariff reform, Mr. Taft hastened to answer that, if elected, he would call a special session of congress to "revise" the tariff. When he hears from the people on guarantee of bank deposits, he may be willing to promise to call a special session to protect banks, bankers and depositors on the plan proposed by Mr. Bryan.

REPUBLICAN PROMISES VS. PERFORMANCES

"The Democratic party finds fault; the Republican party finds work," boastfully proclaims the Republican platform.

But the Republican party is not finding work for the thousands of idle men who are out of jobs in consequence of the Republican panic.

With its self proclaimed ability to give idle men work, there should be no excuse for poverty, penury and woe, and the longer present conditions continue the more serious the responsibility of the Republican party.

FINEST WORK OF CONCRETE IN COUNTY

ABUTMENTS FOR CHURCH STREET BRIDGE OVER RACCOON CREEK COMPLETED.

Contractor Pitzer Had the Contract and the Work is of a Very High Class.

The terms were removed from the concrete abutments for the new West Church street bridge Thursday, and it is promised that by about November 1, the steel structural work will be completed, signalling the formal opening of a direct connection with the extensive tract of city territory situated west of the Raccoon fork of the Licking river. The extension of West Church street will directly open a connection with Cherry Vale addition, Sump & Cunningham, Hall and the Flory & Christian additions, and the state encampment grounds, which which promise to be a city park in the near future.

According to the statement of County Engineer Jackson, when the forms were removed from the immense concrete structure, Thursday, the most successful piece of construction of its kind in the county is that forming the abutments of the new bridge. Engineer Jackson said:

"Undoubtedly, this is the finest piece of concrete work ever done in Licking county."

The contract for the construction of the retaining walls and abutments of the new bridge which is across the Raccoon fork near the junction of West Church and North Williams streets, was let by the county to Mr. A. R. Pitzer, whose years of experience in such lines of construction promised well for the character of the work when completed. And a glance at the work by an experienced eye, will readily show the faultlessness of its construction.

The space between the two concrete walls is a distance of 240 feet—the greatest span in the county, either on local or railroad bridge construction. The material used consists of cement, sand and gravel, in the proportion of 1-3-6 respectively. The two walls represent about 650 cubic yards of the concrete mixture. The base of each wall rests on a solid foundation of piling. For instance, the west wall rests on a base extending six feet below the water, which in turn is supported by piling extending 20 feet still lower, and which leaves the bottom of the piling 26 feet below the water at its normal stage.

The bottom of the steel floor beams of the bridge will rest on the top of the main wall, which extends out in the form of a ledge four feet wide, and five and a half feet below the floor proper of the bridge, which will also be of concrete. The retaining walls are two and a half feet thick. Both walls are 90 feet in length, and each abutment is one solid piece of concrete.

The construction of the walls was under the direct supervision of Mr. Pitzer, with S. J. White acting as construction foreman. The work was commenced on May 1st, and has been pushed along as rapidly as the weather would permit.

It is unusual to find a piece of concrete work making such a finished appearance when it has not been plastered or polished. Mr. Pitzer has had neither attempted on the walls and does not intend to do so, for as they now stand, they represent an excellent piece of finely finished engineering work and resemble solid stone, rather than concrete.

The Mt. Vernon Bridge company of Columbus, will furnish the steel portion of the work and work will probably be commenced on it next month. The newly worn channel of the stream will be filled on the east side of the bridge, as will also the uneven ground to the west. Then, after the city has graded West Church street to correspond, the job will be complete.

Mr. Pitzer has had years of experience in this kind of construction, work, and many years ago secured the contract for rebuilding the abutments of the old aqueduct, which are still in fairly good condition. The completion of the work on the present job adds one more to his list of successes in this line of construction contracting.

LAWYER

To Wed Half the Class of 1885 of Clinton College, Ky.—Bride Elect is of Ohio.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 29.—John E. Kane of Bardwell, Ky., half of the graduating class of 1885 of Clinton College, Clinton, Ky., and Miss Emma Hicks of Kalida, O., the other half, were married here today.

The wedding is the culmination of a school romance that was broken up 23 years ago, when the class quit college and started out in the world.

Kane is an attorney, and has been practicing his profession at Bardwell, Ky. Miss Hicks became a Presbyterian church worker and took charge of a mission school at Huntsville, Tenn.

Early in 1907 Kane attended an alumni reunion at Clinton and learned that the other of the class of '85 had not married. He opened a correspondence with Miss Hicks, and they spent their vacation that summer at Dason Springs, Ky.

The result of the joint vacation was the trip of the entire class of 23 years ago to St. Louis. The "class" is at the Southern Hotel, and called on a Presbyterian minister this morning.

DEATH CAME TO MOTHER OF W. E. MILLER

Remains Will be Brought to Newark for Funeral and Interment—Funeral Tuesday.

A special to the Advocate from ex-Senator William E. Miller at Washington C. H. Saturday morning conveyed the sad information of the death of Mr. Miller's mother, Mrs. Sylvia Morton Miller which occurred Saturday morning at 2 o'clock. Her death occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles D. Snider.

Mr. Miller received a message from Washington C. H. at midnight stating that the condition of his mother was critical. He left on an early train but did not arrive before she passed away.

Mrs. Miller was born at Northport, Me., March 1, 1828, and came from that place to Ohio overland with her mother, two brothers and a sister in 1834. The family settled in Putnam, O., now a part of Zanesville and she resided there until her marriage to James Miller, after which time she lived in Newark. About eight years ago she removed to Washington C. H. with her daughter.

Mrs. Miller was the mother of twelve children four of whom are still living, they being Mrs. Charles D. Snider of Washington C. H., J. M. Miller of Columbus, Mrs. Peter Steif, and Mr. William E. Miller, both of Newark. Her husband died some twenty years ago.

The remains will be brought to Newark Monday at 12:30 p. m. over the B. & O. railroad. The funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 o'clock from the home of Mrs. Peter Steif of 104 Poplar avenue. Interment will be made at Cedar Hill.

Even the promoter isn't always faithful to his trust. It takes a certain amount of blow and bluster to raise the dust.

SERVICE

Of Fifty Years as Leader of One Flock May Be Ended Soon by Louisville Priest.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 29.—Father Bax, the "golden jubilee priest," perhaps the only pastor in the world who has served one flock for 50 years, is expected to retire from duty here. When the little old man was asked the question in his neat study on Walnut street, next to his church, he said that it was better to wait and see.

"Father Bax will tell about it when the time comes," he said simply. "The aged priest's golden jubilee was one of the most resplendent Catholic ceremonies ever seen here. He is nearly 80 years of age."

FOREIGNERS IN DRAMATIC FIGHT

Chicago, Aug. 29.—As a result of a desperate battle on top of a blast furnace, 150 feet from the ground, with Ivan Mealitch and his fellow workers, Nicholas Vidovom, 25, is dead. Struggling to throw each other into the blazing furnace, the men fought for fifteen minutes on the platform amid a shower of sparks, while horrified and helpless spectators looked on. It is believed the men quarreled over a young Polish girl. Mealitch was arrested.

HAYS GETS MEDAL

New York, Aug. 29.—While little Johnny Hayes, the American winner of the Olympic Marathon stood under the outstretched arm of Acting Mayor McGowan today, to receive the special medal awarded him, his little sister, Mary, darted around from behind the table on the reviewing stand and threw her arms around her brother's neck. The crowd of 50,000 people packed around the reviewing stand in front of the city hall to see the American winners at the London games, went wild.

TOWN BURNING.

Murray, Ky., Aug. 29.—An incendiary fire while threatens the entire town destroyed the bank of Murray. Stubbled in clothing store and the Knight dry goods and clothing store today. Loss $50,000. Soldiers who were here to suppress night riders, fought the flames. Tobacco trouble is suspected as the cause of the fire.

The ideal man only exists in the mind of the woman who has never married.

FORTY DEAD

IN CLOUD BURST WHICH ALMOST WIPE OUT NEW MEXICO YESTERDAY.

Town of 8500 People Struck by Torrent Eight Feet Deep—Victims are Starving.

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 29.—Too many bodies, the victims of the cloud burst, and flood at Folsom, N. M., have been recovered by searching parties, according to reports today. None have been identified. The list of known dead is now placed at 33, while it is expected the total casualties will reach 40.

Searching parties are today delving into the wreckage of ruined homes looking for victims while others are searching the country down stream. Bodies have been recovered as far as 15 miles below Folsom, formerly a thriving mining town of 8,000 people, but now practically wiped out. Scarcely a house is left undamaged. The great need of the people today is food. The town's supplies were ruined or carried away by the torrent. Relief is being sent by surrounding towns.

That more persons did not lose their lives is regarded as miraculous. A torrent eight feet deep swept down the Cimarron river, when the town was asleep, carrying destruction upon the camp.

MANAGER

For the Orphium, Arrives in Newark—An Old Minstrel Man Will Have Charge.

Mr. Harvey J. Moore, who managed the new Cooper theater at Mt. Vernon last year, arrived in Newark today, and is making plans for the opening of the Orphium for the coming winter season. Mr. Moore, who is a theatrical man with long experience will have charge of the little play house, and is determined to make a winner out of this year. The Sun & Murray company, now affiliated with the Western Vaudeville circuit and the Keith circuit, will place better acts in the house this winter than have ever been there before.

Mr. Moore has had a successful career in his chosen profession, and as a minstrel man, trombone player and singer, he has appeared with some of the largest minstrel companies on the road. He took charge of the new Cooper at Mt. Vernon last winter and made a success of the house, and will do the same with the Orphium. A good show will open the house Labor Day, and throughout the entire season the acts will be of the highest order.

Mr. Moore will move his family here from Mt. Vernon at once and will make this city his home.

CHANNEY SUCCEEDS MACK.

Columbus, Aug. 29.—Dr. N. H. Channey, superintendent of the public schools at Youngstown, Saturday was appointed by State School commissioner Jones to be a member of the state board of school examiners for a term of five years, succeeding Senaio Mack of Dayton.

BULL FIGHT

ATTENDED BY DRUNKEN MEN CAUSES DISCHARGE OF CITY OFFICIALS.

Inebriates Were Gored by Enraged Bull Before Soldiers Shot the Animal.

Lisbon, Aug. 29.—For permitting a ring full of drunken bull fighters to face an animal that killed two of their number outright, mortally wounded three others and less seriously injured a dozen, the authorities of the town of Rodar were suspended from office today and will doubtless be permanently deprived of their posts in disgrace, following a fuller investigation.

The fight was arranged by the nobility of the country about Rodar and was preceded by a banquet at which the amateur spectators drank so much that not one of them was sober on entering the ring.

The first bull released instantly charged into the staggering group and hurled one man after another over barrier among the shrieking spectators. A soldier finally shot the bull. No fault is found with bull fighting, but that drunken men should have been allowed to enter the ring is considered barbarous.

Liberia now has for the first time an ice-making plant. It turns out 500 pounds of ice and 10 gallons of ice cream daily. The ice sells at 4 cents a pound and the ice cream at 24.40 a gallon.

Mountains never move, and yet it is possible to see a mountain pass. Under a new law in Alabama, that took effect July 1, no man may carry and no man may sell a pistol less than two feet in length.

John Connors, a farmer near Beulah, Kan., makes a nice little stake every year selling cornhusks, which are used to wrap hot tamales.

A LOAD OF OUR LUMBER

is worth a load and a half of the common kind. The reason is because we season it thoroughly and naturally before we let it go out. Then we grade it so carefully our best is as absolutely perfect as lumber can be. You can use a load of it to the last inch. There is no waste and that means less lumber and smaller bills. Sell less than a load? Of course.

AT THE THEATERS

Once again the theatrical bee is infesting the public bonnet and eyes
and ears are being tuned for the annual show fest all over these great United States. The humorous cartoonist can now get busy with his long, lank, truck walking actor, his short skirted, blonde heroine and his moustached, genteel villain, for melodrama is coming along with the rest
of it and coming in earnest, too.

The season which is now opening
will surely not witness as many sensations as did the past season, but the general opinion seems to prevail
that it will witness many times more successes, both from the standpoint
of the box office and the artistic mind
of the fickle public.

The depression in business of last year, while resulting in great loss to promoters and managers of road companies, had its good qualities after all,
for the long-headed Klaw & Erlangers,
Stair & Havlins, Frohman, Savages
and their professional kin have all remembered the adage, "After clouds,
the sunshine," and in the very face
of the financial failures have been hard
at work picking out plays and players for the 1908-9 season. Some two or three new dramatists will make their debut within the coming month, and about the same number of new stars
will be given a chance to twinkle in the theatrical firmament. Whether they will twinkle to the tune of dollars of course remains to be seen.

New York and Chicago, together
with the large neighbor cities of the former, have, expressing it literally, bought their seats and adjusted their glasses and begun to take in the joys of initial performances. Ohio, just between these two great art centers,
will be in for her share of good offerings at a very early date, and, although it has been said that "what we see New York has forgotten about,"
the big managers promise the Buckeye state a larger and better class of attractions to choose from than in several years past.

Newark will get a goodly number of the best traveling attractions, according to the announced plans of Will D.
Harris of the Auditorium theatre,
which is scheduled to open shortly
with a week of repertoire, followed by the John W. Vogel minstrels, an aggregation of entertainers always accorded a hearty welcome in this city.
The Orphium, Sun and Murray's popular vaudeville house, will open
its doors for the season on Labor Day,
as announced, with a bill made up of
what the management terms its best
"openers."

The Grand Bijou, Musee and Wonderland will continue their moving picture exhibitions, and Idlewild casino
will continue to draw crowds, so that Newark amusement lovers will have

fire," the Broadhurst-Hobart racing
comedy in which Miss Russell will appear at Liberty theatre Labor Day,
has been altered slightly from the production in which she appeared so successfully last season on the road.
Advantage has been taken of the deep interest displayed by the public
in the New York anti-betting bill,
and this feature has been made more prominent in the revised play. Joseph Brooks has surrounded Miss
Russell with a splendid company.
Two performances will be given in Asbury park September 4 and 5 to round out the performance before his New York hearing.

Adeline Genes sails for New York
September 23, to open her engagement in "The Soul Kew." Klaw & Erlanger will give her a new production and two new ballets for use in the United States next season. Miss Genes is not engaged to be married and she will not appear in London in musical comedy next season.

"Strongheart," perhaps one of the best of all college plays, is again
scheduled to go on tour Monday, September 7, the inaugural performance to be given at Nixon's Apollo theater, Atlantic City, N. J. This is one of the early season bookings for the Auditorium theater.

Rose Stahl arrived from Europe on the Baltic of the White Star line Friday to take up rehearsals of "The Chorus Lady" in which she opens her third season on September 7, at the Grand Opera House, New York.

Alice Lloyd will have her New York
hearing in "The Bonnie Belle of Scotland," at the New York theater early in the fall. George M. Cohan is writing the music and John J. McNally has the book completed. The show will contain several imported numbers as features of the musical comedy.

Guy Standing, who plays the part of Charley Steele in "The Right of Way," which opens the Broadway
theater, Brooklyn, Saturday evening,
September 5, was lost and is found.
The newspapers discovered him when friends and cabriolet failed. Mr. Standing laconically called Klaw & Erlanger that he had forgotten his engagements until he saw a story of his disappearance in a London paper. Fuller explanations would be given on his arrival in New York, he said. Theodore Roberts has joined the company in rehearsal, but Mr. Standing will arrive in New York only a day before the play opens.

The Nancy Boyer Stock company,
which closes its summer season with next week's appearance at Idlewild
casino, will open the fall tour at the Parrot Opera House, Lima, O., the week following. This will also be the regular opening of the season at that place.

The "Fifty Miles From Boston"
show, now appearing in Columbus, is the same, in every respect, that will be seen at the Auditorium theater in this city this season.
"There is Nothing in the World Like Love." This is the title of the new show which the now celebrated Bob Blake sings in "The Traveling Salesman." The song is by Edwin Madden, the author of "Blue Bells," and appeared in the New York World last Sunday. Henry B. Harris, who produced "The Traveling Salesman," was himself a traveling salesman.
Mr. Harris was a salesman for cigars for ten years (1884 to 1894), and was at one time a member of the cigar firm of Wise, Harris & Company of Boston. Mr. Wise is now one of the heads of the United Cigar Stores
company.

Lillian Russell is spending her
days with the dressmaker, the photographer and in rehearsals. "Wild-

management announces a complete change of specialties.

A young man who is very popular with Newark lovers of repertoire
companies is Mr. Arthur Chatterton, leading man of the Nancy Boyer Stock company, who has been seen here several times since his connection with the old Americans.

AUDITORIUM.
Miss Theresa Jacobs closes her engagement tonight at the Auditorium
and goes direct to Detroit to sing at the Detroit opera house. Miss Jacobs has proved to be one of the strongest acts in the Auditorium this season
and has become a great favorite with
the patrons of this beautiful house.

Tonight positively terminates her engagement here, and the people of Newark should not miss the opportunity to hear the sweet voiced singer. Good pictures and new songs.

WASHINGTON
AUTHORITIES

STILL HAVE THE EX-SOLDIER,
NORTH CAROLINA LEFER ON THEIR HANDS.

Belief of War Department Officials
That He Will Have to Remain
in the District.

Washington, Aug. 29.—John A.
Early, the ex-soldier from North Carolina, who came here looking for a pension and was discovered to be suffering with leprosy, is still in the hands of the district authorities.

The North Carolina state authorities do not want him and have suggested that Early being an ex-soldier
might be cared for by the war department.

Shortly after the Spanish war, officials of the Milwaukee Soldiers' Home
wrote to the department announcing that Alfred S. O'Gorman, who had served as a private in Co.
G, First Infantry, during the war,
was suffering from leprosy in that institution. He was isolated at the home, but the authorities wanted the war department to transfer him. No railroad would take him as a passenger, however, and O'Gorman is still at the Milwaukee home.

It is the belief of war department officials that for the same reason Early will have to remain here in the district of Columbia.

Early received word this morning
that his wife was en route to Washington. The health authorities will permit her to visit him daily at his tent, but she will not be allowed to live with him.

BEALL REUNION.

The second annual reunion of the Beall family was held at the pleasant
country home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E.
Hoskinson on Thursday, August 27.
Four generations were present. The oldest member of the family, William M. Beall of West Locust street, this city, now in his eighty-seventh year,
was able to be present, and added
much to the occasion by relating incidents in the early history of the family. At the noon hour the table was spread under a large tree on the lawn,
and everything that culinary skill
could devise was seen and partaken
of by those present.

After listening to some historical sketches by the secretary and some pleasant games indulged in, the song,
"Blest be the Tie that Binds," was sung, the goodbyes were said, and all voted a day most happy spent.

The latest for fall in boys' and children's suits are now being shown

A STRONG BANK
PUBLISHES ITS
STATEMENTS

In this issue we publish the statement of the Licking County Bank and Trust company as called for by the new banking department of the state of Ohio. Under the new law this bank will be under a rigid state inspection similar to that under which the government places the National banks.

With years of successful experience,
over 1,200 depositors and over one million dollars of deposits, this institution occupies a position in the front ranks of savings banks in Central Ohio.

Its management makes no boasts
and does not claim to be the only good bank, but they do claim that there are none safer or more conservatively managed. New patrons find a cordial welcome.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS.

Newark People Have Absolute Proof
of Deeds at Home.

It's not words, but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills,
for Newark kidney sufferers,
have made their local reputation.
Proof lies in the testimony of Newark people who have been cured to stay cured.

Charles W. Manville, residing at 7
Lansing Block, Newark, Ohio, says:
"I had a severe attack of grippe which weakened my kidneys and as a result
I suffered from pains in my back and a disordered condition of my kidney secretions. There was a constant dull aching in my back and through my loins, accompanied by sharp shooting
twinges which annoyed me both day
and night. I tried numerous remedies but obtained only temporary relief and was gradually becoming run down in health. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills I procured a box at Crayton's drug store, began using them and the result was a complete cure." (From statement given Nov.
10, 1904.)

CONFIRMED PROOF.

On Nov. 26, 1907, Mr. Manville said:
"I am pleased to reiterate my former testimonial in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills, as the results I obtained from their use have proven permanent.
Doan's Kidney Pills acted so promptly in my case that I have the greatest confidence in them."

New York, Aug. 29.—"I thank you,
but I'm so nervous I want to go to my room to cry."

That was the speech which was coaxed from the star, Miss Billie Burke, in the Lyceum theatre. If she could have sat on the other side of the footlights she would not have felt
so nervous about herself, for no one in the auditorium seemed to have any such feeling about her.

And that brings us to the explanation of what it was all about. It was, in the first place, the process of making a star of Miss Burke. She is an American, if you please, but until last season, when she supported Mr. John Drew, she was quite unknown here.
But if native managers were slow to discover her, native audiences were quick enough to appreciate her last year. And now she is a star, her appearance last night being Jacqueline

in the first performance here of "Love Watches," a comedy by Messrs. R. de Flers and G. Cailhau, adapted by Miss Gladys Unger.

Miss Burke was irresistibly charming, ingenious and captivating, she appeared to have the art of acting at the tip of her fingers and seemed to hide all artificiality by her frank sincerity. She "had" the audience from the start, and said old theatregoers
marvelled at the manner in which
she "carried across" the footlights.
She got into close touch with her audience and she held them—not tense,
but rather with a charm. There was never any doubt of her success from the moment she naively bobbed on the stage.

THE DONAKIN CIRCUS FROM DON'S BOOK OF DONAKINS

But you mustn't suppose that this great display
Could frighten the frivolous Spots away,
Indeed, before you could stop to think
He had given the zebra a wicked wink
As his secret sign
Of his bold design,
And they gayly jumped to the head of the line!

Behind them ambled, with air sedate,
At a very subdued and domestic gait,
The remaining ponies—a modest pair—
To precede the pageant and blaze and flare:
The riot and din
That usher in
The time that a circus will really begin.

The Donakin banners floated high,
And trumpets, shouting their silver cry,
Were borne by pages on snowy white
Horses with trappings blazing bright.
Whose step was proud
And whose hoofs rang loud—
Just the thing to draw a tremendous crowd!

Now carefully heeding the testimony
Of that very intelligent calico pony,
Don turned to the animal book, and behold!
It happened exactly as Spots had foretold!
With a rush and a flutter,
A roar and a mutter,
There stamped forth a magnificent clutter.

"Oh, Spots, it's a circus!" cried Don, with a whoop;
"It's the Only Original Donakin Troupe!"
For this was the legend its banners bore,
As it rambled out on the playroom floor,
And jostled and blundered,
And trampled and thundered,
While Don sat aghast and just wondered and wondered.

Now, all of us know it's a wonderful treat
Just to stand on our toes in the crowded street
And wait for the slow, mysterious thump
Of the march, and watch for the camel's hump,
Or fix our eye
On the mountain-high
Elephant saddle, a-swaying by.

So think of the dizzy, delirious joy
That befell this one little fortunate boy
In having, without any grown up aid,
His private and personal Circus Parade!
In miniature
It was, to be sure;
But a finer exhibit you could not procure.

It's not surprising that Don just sprang
To his feet, and cheered till the ceiling rang
As in gay procession, two by two,
Riders and animals filed into view.
While they all kow-towed
And smiled and bowed
And their thanks to their little host avowed.

There were bareback riders—ladies, of course—
Each lightly perched on a prancing horse;
There were shrouded figures on Arab steeds;
There were soldiers glowing with martial deeds,
Upon horses that snorted
Or boldly cavorted
While others themselves most politely distorted.

And these were with riders and burdens bent
In the picturesque way of the Orient,
While the camels, their awfully humpy half brothers,
Walked freely along like most of the others;
If assaulted by thumps
From their comrades, or bumps,
They had an odd way of just shrugging their humps.

Don wished there was time to linger and choose
The zebus, the buffaloes or the gnus—
They all were so queer that they made you laugh,
Which was equally true of the tall giraffe.
But there wasn't a chance
To give more than a glance,
For here came the marching elephants.

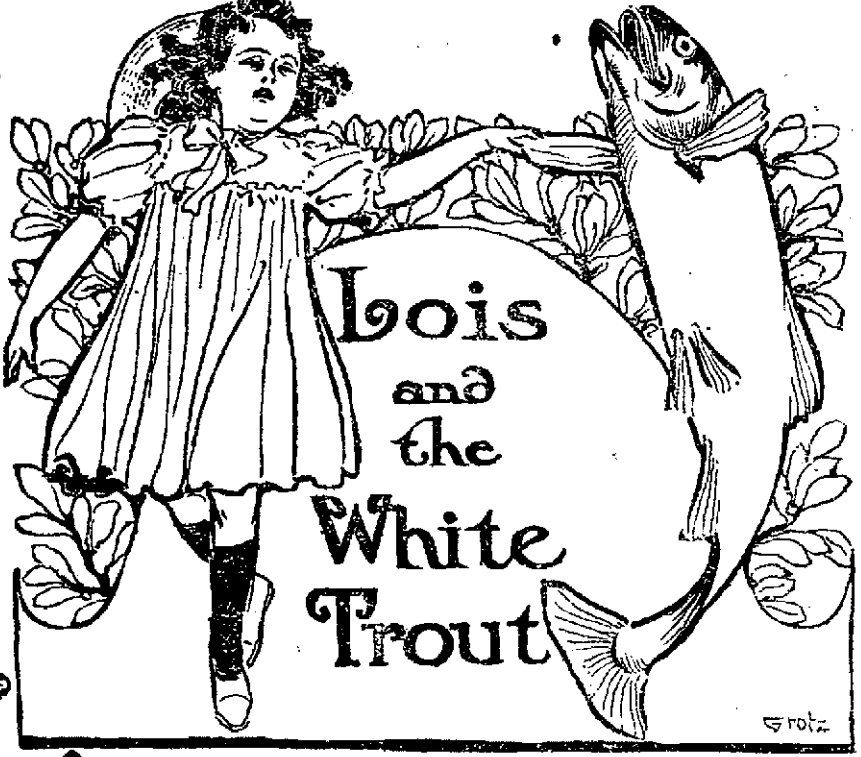

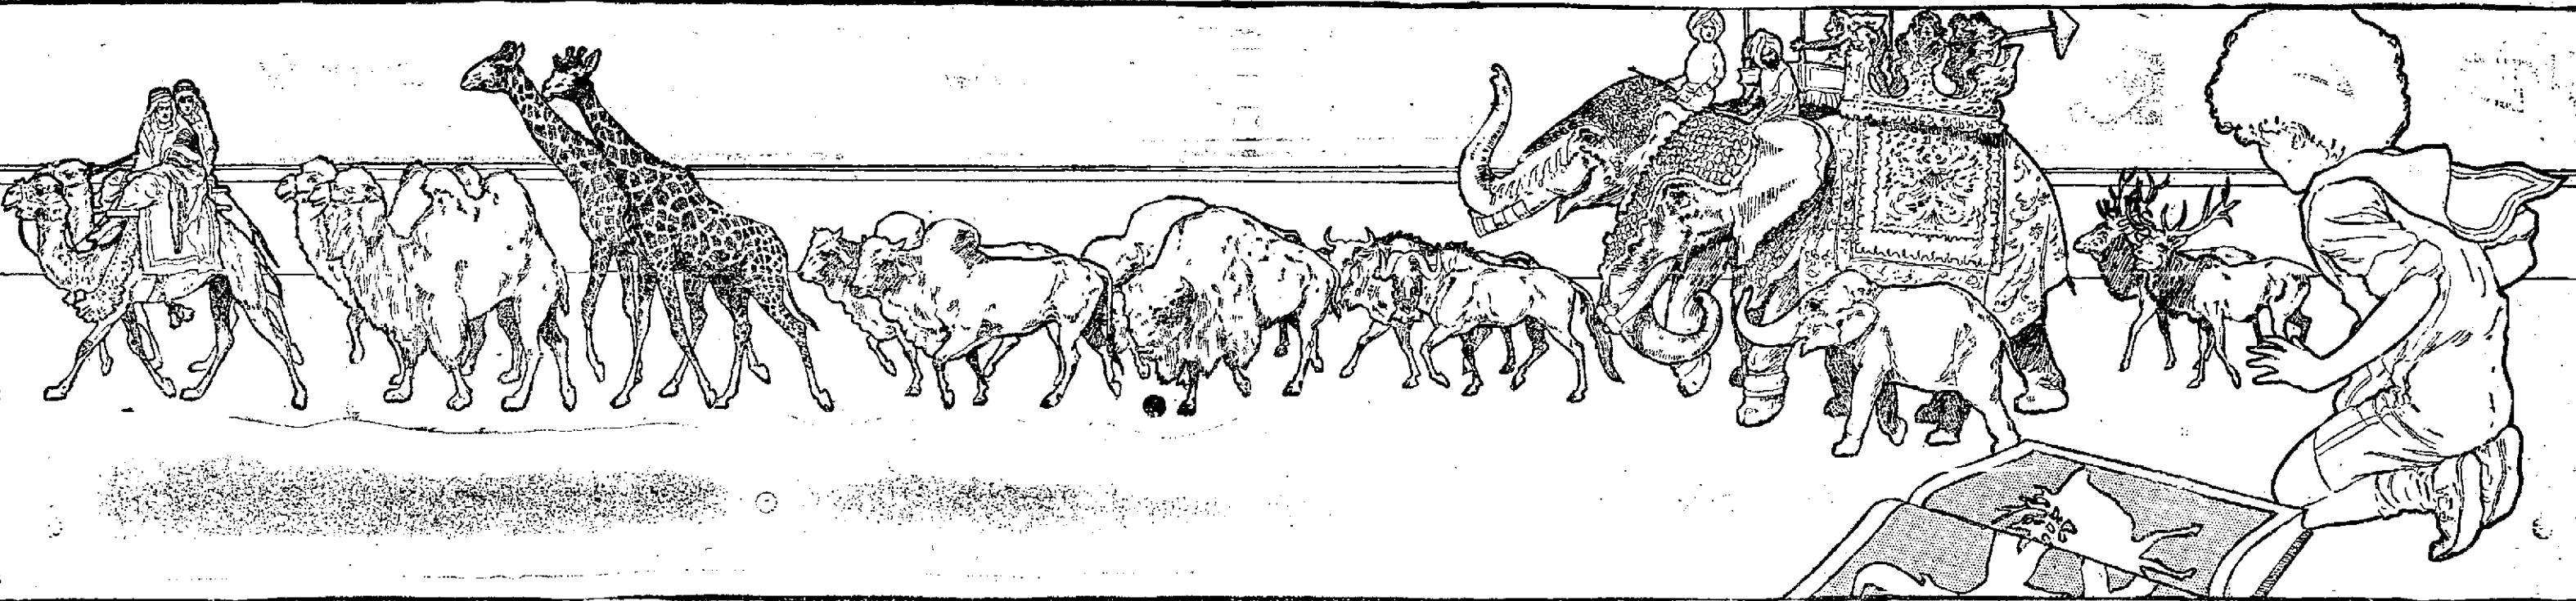

In the very conspicuous cushioned seats,
Entirely at ease in these funny feats,
But the cunningest monkeys, eight or ten,
With the clothes and the airs of grown up men!
Then Don, dismayed,
Heard a voice that said,
"Now, this is the end of the Grand Parade!"

Beasts from the jungle, from lands of ice—
Some that were ugly and some that were nice;
Animals common to story books,
Others of unfamiliar looks—
They all were there,
With important air,
And toilets arranged with fastidious care.

There were Indian chiefs, in war paint dressed,
Whom Don liked better than all the rest,
Until, in voices husky and dim,
Two dromedaries accosted him.
With sheep-like face
And slow, staid grace,
They seemed a most kind and obliging race!

Now both of these colossal creatures
Had turbaned drivers of dusky features,
Who sat perched quaintly between their ears
And prodded their thick gray hides with spears.
But you must confess
That you couldn't guess
Who sat in the greatest stateliness,

what a pity to catch them! They are so pretty!"

Alexis laughed. "That's just like a girl!" he said. "What do you think would have happened if the pioneers had refused to catch them because they were pretty? They would all have starved to death and this place would never have been any more than a wilderness filled with Indians and catamounts."

Alexis knew all about the pioneers, for he had read the Leather Stocking Tales and other books that told about them. "Did the pioneers live on trout all the time?" Lois asked.

"Mostly," said Alexis, who was not quite sure. "Of course they had deer and a bear now and then."

Look here, Lois, Bartley put in, "if I tell you something will you promise to be honest and true, black and blue, not to say a word about it until we have caught him?"

"Caught what?" Lois asked.

"Don't tell her unless she promises," Alexis said hastily.

"I promise, honest and true, black and blue," Lois said. "Now what is it?"

Bartley looked all around to make sure that there was nobody near enough to overhear. "We know where there's a white trout," he said.

"Are there white trout?" Lois asked.

"I thought they were always socked," Alexis said. "They are very rare," Alexis said severely. "They are even rarer than white woodchucks. We are determined to catch him, and you mustn't say a thing about it, not to a living soul, until we do."

"Do not betray us," Bartley said.

"Of course not. Where is it?" Lois asked.

"Shall we tell her?" Bartley asked, turning to Alexis.

"I suppose we shall have to trust her," his cousin replied solemnly. "If she should prove unworthy we shall know how to deal with her."

Alexis had read so much that he could see words that sounded almost like a book. Lois liked to hear him because it made things seem more serious.

"Well, then," Bartley said, "you know where the old willow is below the bridge?"

"Yes," said Lois.

"Here in the pool under the tree," Bartley said.

"Why didn't you catch him?" Lois asked.

"We tried, but he wouldn't bite," Bartley replied.

"They are ten times as hard to catch as common trout," Alexis said. "Everybody knows that they are the hardest kind of fish to catch, but we will have him if it takes us all summer. We shall never turn back from our pursuit. He lowered his voice mysteriously. "We have sworn it!" he added.

"There's the supper bell—not a word more!" said Bartley.

Lois was not as tired as the boys, and she lay awake that night until she heard the sound of carriage wheels and knew that her father had come up from the city to spend Sunday, as he always did on Friday nights. She put on her wrapper and ran downstairs to kiss him.

"See what I've brought you," he said, holding out a long package he took a beautiful light fishing rod.

"Thank you, father," cried Lois, and she kissed him again. "It was splendid of you to bring it. You must show me tomorrow how to use it."

Mr. Finch put the joints together and fastened on the reel. Then he drew the line through the tip, which bent like a whip. To the end of the line he fastened a shining baiter and to the end of that a shiny little gray artificial fly, with the hook hidden in it.

"There," he said, handing her the rod. "Now you're ready, and we'll surprise the boys tomorrow after breakfast. All you have to do is to let the fly trail along the surface of the water and take care that the trout doesn't see you, and you can catch as many as the best of them."

For some reason, perhaps because she was excited, Lois woke up the next morning very early, just as the sky was beginning to get light. She did not feel like going to sleep again, and pretty soon an idea came to her. She dressed herself and stole quietly down stairs, took her new rod and went out. She intended to go down to the creek and try for a trout. If she did not get any she would be back again before the others were up and the boys would not laugh at her.

She went straight to the old willow which leaned over the water where there was a still pool. Remembering what her father had said she crept up to the edge of the pool, very carefully, taking pains not to show herself or to make the least noise. Then she thrust the tip of her rod carefully over the water and let the fly dangle. The line was not quite long enough and the fly did not touch the water by an inch or two. She was about to draw it back when to her great surprise there was a flash and a splash and the white trout jumped out of the pool and caught the fly in his jaws. The next that Lois knew the fly and the line and the rod were tangled in the branches of the willow and the white trout was flopping on the grass at her feet. She had pulled him out without thinking what she was doing.

She went down on her knees and put the edge of her skirt under him. As soon as he was on the grass she gathered up the skirt around him and started home as fast as she could run. George was coming out of the kitchen with his pan when she reached the house.

The House Puzzle

BY E. PATTEN BEARD

Directions for House Puzzle.

Once upon a time a man built a house. Here is a picture of the house. If you will carefully cut out the black squares of the door and windows and place the house within the square above it, you will find the name of the town where the house was built in the spaces of the door and windows. Be careful not to take the house out of the square. It should be kept inside, though you may move the house around as much as you please, so long as you keep it inside the four sides of the square.

keep quiet until after breakfast, but she managed to do it, and nobody could have been more surprised than her father and the boys when she led them out to the trough and showed them her prize.

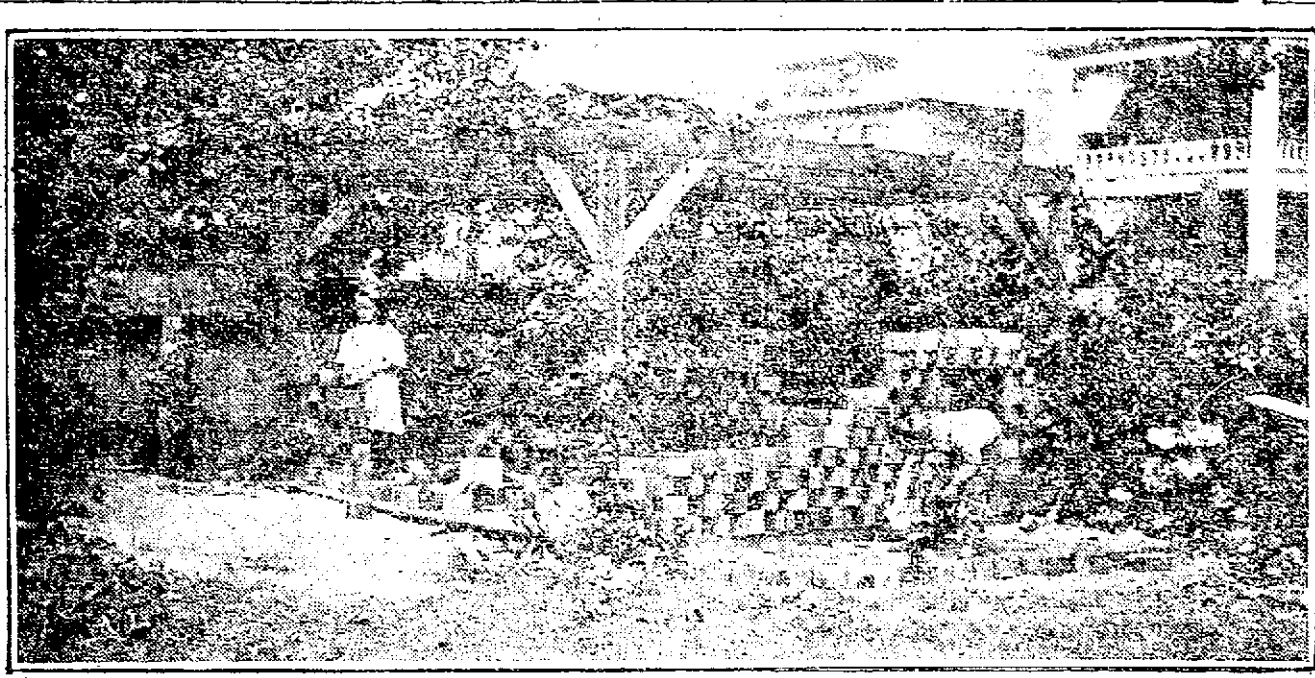

"That's what comes of telling secrets to girls!" Alexis said.

"Nonsense!" said Mr. Finch. "You had the first chance, and you didn't catch him. I guess you'll have to take Lois with you after this when you go fishing."

"And they did."

A PERFECT PLAYGROUND for YOUNG CHILDREN

BUILDING A HOUSE WITH CEDAR, SAVING BLOCKS UNDER A PERGOLA THAT CAN BE EASILY MADE AND COVERED WITH SUMMER-BLOOMING VINES.

MATERIAL REQUIRED FOR SWING.
 Framework—74 feet inch lumber, 2 1/2 inches wide.
 20 slats for chairs, 1 1/2 inch, 2 1/2 x 22.
 8 slats for platform, 1 inch, 6 x 22.
 2 broomsticks, 24 inches.
 1 post, 7 feet by 6 inches.
 4 heavy screw-eyes.
 4 heavy hooks.
 12 3 inch bolts.
 A few single nails for slats.
 4 feet strap iron.

short are, small momentum, and there is small damage from a tumble.

For the big children have a big swing. Hang it from a high limb or from a cross bar supported by two tall posts. It will give exercise to almost every muscle of the body and pleasure that doesn't stale.

A single rope secured to a high limb is excellent for hand over hand climbing and also for swinging. It makes strong biceps muscles for boys and girls.

The next hottest favorite in our suburbs is the sand box. It makes the young again just to see five children of assorted sizes digging their toes into the cool, moist sand on a hot day. Have the box wide and shallow, for the children dearly love to get right into it. Let there be a wide board bottom punctured with a few nail holes for drainage. Set the box on blocks or cleats of wood, so there shall be a circulation of air to keep the earth under it dry and sweet. Nail a slat-inch board of dressed lumber flat on each of the four sides. Let one inch extend inside and four inches outside the edge of the box. Such a rim prevents much spilling of sand on the ground outside the box. It furnishes seats, if you like, or a counter on which to display cakes and other manufactures of the sand bakery.

The box is better when but partly full. Five bushels of sand, costing twenty-five cents per bushel delivered, will fill a box six feet square and eight inches deep. Get beach sand, white and clean, with rounded grains. Avoid the more expensive sharp sand used in mortar for plastering.

Moisten the sand so that it will be easy to work. You can throw up embankments, build forts and stubble flags and soldiers for a little right in the sand box.

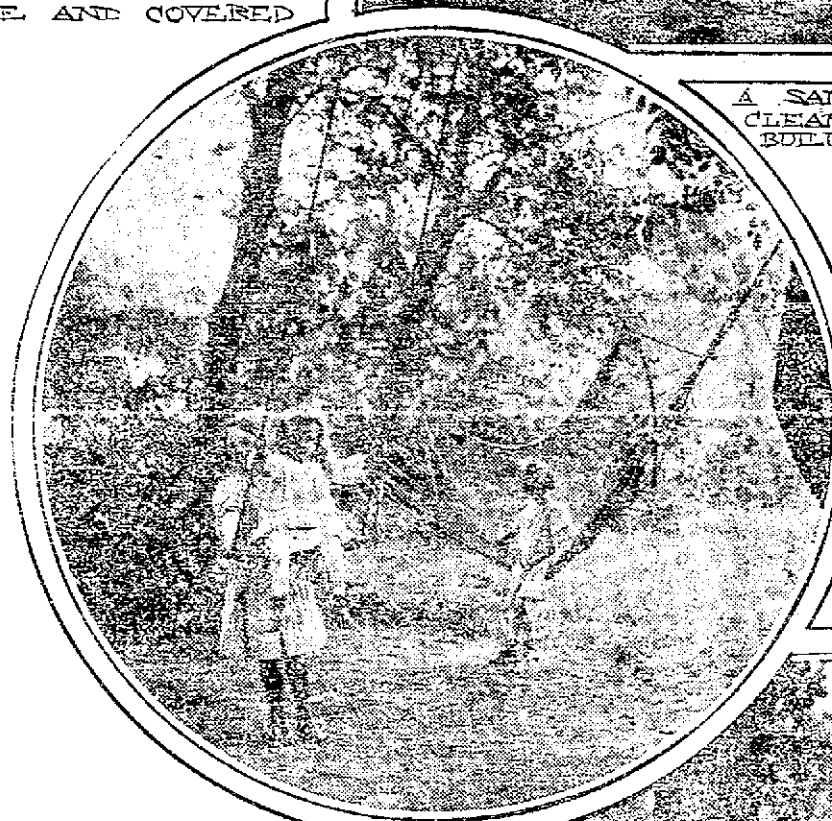

The smaller folk like to mold sand cookies and patty cakes and set them to bake in the sun. Empty the boxes of various shapes make excellent molds, and you can buy fancy molds from the dealers in kindergarten supplies.

If a shady place is possible give it to the sand box. If not, fix an umbrella or, better, put up four tall corner posts and stretch a roof of cloth above the box. A toy model is a fascinating form of play which has great educative value. A lamp as big as Johnnie's head, well painted, wrapped in oil cloth, ready for use, is sold for twenty-five cents by dealers in kindergarten supplies. Lamps are fun. If you don't direct them in this, as made by candles first or pencils or bits of wood, the children take to it pressing themselves.

By putting the clay used for the lamp and wrapping it in the damp, all the supply lasts for a long time, and it is a good idea to have a table of the supply used.

Let this be small, as well as a large one. The smallest lot of garden tools, a hoe, a rake and a shovel, costs ten cents. Stronger ones, and larger, twenty-five cents and upward. For the younger ones, a small garden hose, a watering can, a small pot and a tiny hoe. For the older ones, a small garden hose, a watering can, a small pot and a tiny hoe. For the older ones, a small garden hose, a watering can, a small pot and a tiny hoe.

should be respected by the juveniles. Let them be small and well tended, yielding tidbits or some other quick growing crop good to eat. Have one flowering plant, like sweet peas, to justify weeding.

The seesaw, I venture to say, is four thousand years old and is not likely to lose its grip on children for four million years to come. You can begin with a board and anything to balance it on and thus teach the youngest children. But the children get older you should provide them with an adjustable board so that children of different ages may use it.

Here is an old fable that children love to say:

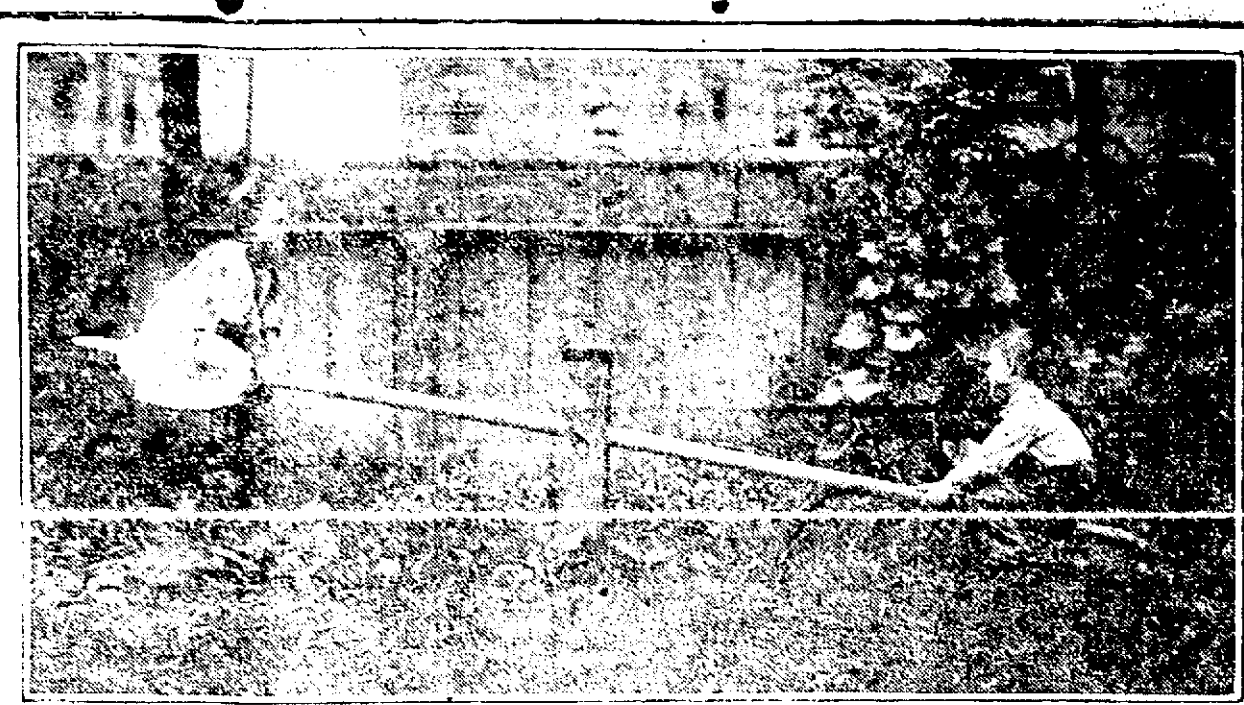

Teeter-tawter, head and water
 I'm a son and you're a daughter.
 You go up and I go down.
 Tumble off and break my crown.

If you teach this to the older child in the right spirit you can develop the proper instinct in him, so that he will be unswerving on the watch to see that no mischief happens to his smaller companions.

A tent is a wilderness of joy, pure and unadulterated, especially if it have by it some grape arbor or a furnished shade. What doesn't the children take to it? When there is a mild rain coming down, a tent is a desirable if you can afford it, and it is good to have a table and a cot, two chairs and some pictures.

The door of the household will be quarantined from the outside world. From this point of view, a tent is a desirable if you can afford it, and it is good to have a table and a cot, two chairs and some pictures.

A low bench or sofa and a cot is a

or four sitters, yet not be too heavy to be moved about by two children.

But the ideal seat is a swinging one, hence a hammock. Three or four little ones can pile into that while the big ones are using the swing. Fasten it very securely. Take no chances on falls.

If you want to get many more suggestions along this line you should have a catalogue of one of the sporting goods houses and look into the cost of croquet, lawn bowls, archery, &c. And no home is complete without a catalogue of one of the dealers in kindergarten supplies. It is full of suggestions for winter amusements which are infinitely better than costly mechanical toys.

The greatest joy of the big children in our neighborhood is a double seated swing in which they can go to an extraordinary height without the slightest danger. Such a swing would cost $10 or $15 at a store, but it was made by my neighbor in one afternoon, and he offers to make me one like it for $4.50.

It is so very good that I am going to tell you just how to make it. It is made out of old boxes, and when the winter comes it can be easily taken to pieces and stored indoors.

The framework is of inch lumber, and the slats of seats are half inch boards. The platform, 5 1/2 feet long and 2 feet wide, consists of two parallel bars, 2 1/2 inches wide, 22 inches apart, to which eight slats 1 x 2 1/2 are securely nailed.

The back of each chair consists of two 2 foot lengths, 1 x 2 1/2, sloping enough to meet the 11 foot arms of the swing at a point on the platform eight inches from the end. A broomstick 2 1/2 inches long passes through holes bored in the ends of these pieces, securing the chair back and long arms to the platform.

The chair seat is securely fastened by bolts to the long arms and to the chair backs. The weight of the swing and the added strain while in use make it necessary to have a strong union between the arms and the supporting cross bar. These arms should be made of some strong, flexible wood like oak or hickory, not soft pine or spruce. The weight must swing with little friction. The arm ends are rounded and a small hole two inches from the end is bored edge-wise through the wood, intersecting the smaller hole. This hole is not one inch long. Now a piece of strap iron a foot long is bowed around the end of each arm and nalled fast. A bolt passes edgewise through the small hole in the wood and through holes in the strap iron on each side. It also passes through the central exposed, three-quarter inch hole. A heavy iron hook, bearing on the bolt, in the end of each wooden arm, supports the weight and strain. The hook has a loop which goes through a heavy screw eye. Here is the motion of the swing. The screw eyes are inserted in a heavy round post, seven feet long, that rests horizontally in convenient crochets of two trees, five feet apart. They are paired; each screw eye is six inches from its mate, on a line which encircles the post. The pairs are set twenty-two inches apart in the middle of the timber.

Care of a Dog.

A DOG'S digestion is almost identical with a man's, except that it requires twice as much time. Scraps from the table will usually form a properly balanced ration. Let the dog foods alone. Give the puppy three meals a day until he is eight months old. Then two meals only. Don't let him have all he will eat. A house dog should have his heavy meal in the morning, the light one at night. An outdoor dog needs his heavy meal at night, to keep him warm through the night.

If a dog is costive stir his sluggish liver by a dose of one-half teaspoonful each of buckthorn and castor oil. A spoonful of raw black molasses will act as a mild laxative. This is especially good for puppies, for in this they get in soluble form the salt they require. Table salt they are slow to assimilate.

Many people overdo the washing of dogs. This is a process rarely needed, because dogs do not perspire through the skin as we do, but from the tongue. Soap and water robs the hair of necessary oil. The proper way to clean the hair is by brushing with a coarse hand brush. White dogs are cleaned by rubbing in, then brushing out, powdered magnesia.

Fleas do not breed in the hair of dogs, but in sandy soil. They get on the dog, but he suffers more discomfort than pain from their bites.

Cedar excelsior as bedding in the kennel is a tried and tested flea exterminator. If your nearest apothecary cannot let you have a pound of it try rubbing your dog's coat with a magnesia brick which you have saturated with ten cents' worth of spirits of camphor.

Reason for Heavy Wheels.

EVERYWHERE in the Old World the wheels of wagons and carriages are two or three times as heavy as those on corresponding vehicles in America, and so appear clumsy and cumbersome to us. The explanation of the difference is that our wheels are made of hickory, a wood unknown abroad which supplies the requisite strength in such a mass.—Travel Magazine.

Some Hints on Growing Things, and Other Little Suburban Helps

Pot Herbs or Boiled Greens.

SPINACH, beet tops and dandelion greens are good and standily, but or stewed like celery. It tastes somewhat like celery, but has a sweet, aromatic worth a trial on the same table. Kale flavor much liked by many. It should be and carefully trim the ends of the stalks, covered with the foot. A part of leaves, of which the tender blades are a row will be enough for a first trial. The cooked. The Greens, which are famous in their own country and in the markets of large cities.

For winter use, seeds of these are planted in the North in July or later, thinned, transplanted into rows three or four feet apart each way, where space is not object, the cabbage and garden are sown in light soil, covered thinly. Transplant when six weeks old to drills.

For spring use, the Scotch kale seed is sown in drills in June or later, transplanted late in August, and left unplanted in the garden over winter. The shoots that come up in spring are tender and delicious.

Ficence or Naples Fern.

This herb is used as a flavor for soups or eaten raw and its young leaves like spinach. Served in much prized in French cooking. As a salad or a pot herb with spinach it adds a pleasant flavor which is highly prized. A shaded spot is best for its growth. Sow in rows eighteen inches apart in rich soil.

The dwarf kinds are best for small gardens in the North. Put six seeds to the foot and cover with one or two inches of soil. Plant in rows two feet apart, except with tall varieties. Plantings should be made in late May and again in June. When plants are six inches tall they should be thinned to one foot apart. They transplant with difficulty.

The earliest plantings are ready for the table in August. The pods should be used before they reach the stringy stage. Remove every pod except those desired for seed and the plant will continue to bear till frost. Leave them on and the whole thing goes to seed and quits.

To Grow Mild Peppers.

CHOOSE a variety of the salad type to be eaten green, not the sorts used in their red stage, for their hotness. The bigger you can grow a pepper the milder its flavor. To grow peppers best one must start seeds under glass—in a bath, greenhouse or window—in early March and transplant to the garden in May, or else buy pepper plants in May, or else buy pepper plants in May, or else buy pepper plants in May.

In the garden plants should stand about two feet apart each way. Cultivation should be constant to maintain the moisture in the soil. To obtain specially large, fine fruits, remove all but a few from some of the plants.

Okra in the North.

NORTHERNERS are beginning to appreciate that okra (the main item in gumbo soup) is a delicious vegetable. It is easy to grow in the North and get a crop of young pods before frost kills the plants.

The dwarf kinds are best for small gardens in the North. Put six seeds to the foot and cover with one or two inches of soil. Plant in rows two feet apart, except with tall varieties. Plantings should be made in late May and again in June. When plants are six inches tall they should be thinned to one foot apart. They transplant with difficulty.

ASTOUNDING ARE FIGURES

EXPENDED ON THE NAVIES OF SEVEN LEADING COUNTRIES OF THE WORLD.

British Admiralty Gives Out Figures Which Show America Second in the List.

London, Aug. 29.—The astounding sum of $1,431,970,989 has been expended in the last three years on the navies of seven of the leading countries of the world, according to an estimate by the British admiralty, just made public.

The seven countries are America, England, France, Russia, Germany, Italy and Japan.

England leads with an expenditure of $476,955,465 and America is second with $341,310,719.

Aside from their hugeness the chief interest in the figures presented by the admiralty is that they show England is not keeping up with her policy of maintaining a navy equal to that of any other two powers.

Putting America's naval expenditures in the last three years with those of either France, Russia, Germany or Japan the total is larger than that of England.

The British, however, do not count America an opposing power and on this basis her "two power" naval strength is being maintained. The figures presented are on the basis of expenditures for the current year equalling the estimates.

A man is generally on his mettle when he has a steely glint in his eye.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED FOR LECTURE COURSE

Which Will be Given During the Coming Season by the Newark Y. M. C. A.

Arrangements are just being completed by the Star Course Committee of the Y. M. C. A. for the talent for the coming season and the fixing of dates. The courses will consist of six numbers, three concerts and three lectures.

The opening date will be October 19, the "John Eberly Concert party" of Chicago, being the attraction. The other concerts are to be "The Vassar Girls," in December, and the "Fisher Ship Concert Company," April 1.

The Vassar Girls are a unique company of college girls and they give a varied and most interesting program. The Fisher Ship company has been in Newark before and were so well liked that they will not need much booming to fill the house.

The lectures of the course are not the least of its attractions. Rev. Dr. D. F. Fox of Chicago being one of the most popular and entertaining of platform favorites and at the same time is able to put into his address both information and entertainment.

Dr. A. A. Willets, the dean of the American platform, the apostle of sunshine, and altogether one of America's most remarkable men, will be another of the list and will certainly not fall behind any in quality.

William Hawley Smith, who is to be one of the course attractions is an attraction. He is one of America's homeliest men and also one of the whitest. He is called a humorist, but his fun is of the kind that has sense as well as sound.

The price of course tickets will be $1.00 to everyone and for those who want reserves there will be a season fee of 50 cents or they can reserve for single entertainments for 10 cents.

The committee in charge is headed by the well known physician, Dr. W. S. Turner, who has had a large experience with Lyceum work and is well posted as to satisfactory talent. The committee feel that emphasis should be put on the fact that the course is not run to make money for the Y. M. C. A. It is merely expected to pay its way and furnish the members and friends of the association with some of the best entertainment going.

In the several years of its history the course has usually paid its way. It is an enterprise for the general good not to make money for any one.

Thinks It Saved His Life.
Lester M. Nelson, of Naples, Maine says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would no more be without a bottle than I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at F. D. Hall's drug store, 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.
